

Cindy Brendel has been a training consultant and Master Trainer for such organizations as Edward Jones, LMI Aerospace Inc., and Ingersoll Rand for over 20 years. She has consulted widely on needs assessment, program design, program development, and program delivery. She has a Master's in Human Resource Development and a Master's in Management and Leadership. Her area of expertise includes strategic management, change management, team leadership, coaching and counseling, facilitation and presentation skills, and communication for leaders. Her global experience encompasses working with leaders in the United States, Canada, Mexico, the United Kingdom, Ireland, and China. She is currently the President for the American Society of Training and Development St. Louis Metropolitan Chapter.